Senator Fair will, in less than ten days, bid adieu to the Senate and his six years of service in that body. The Baltimore Sun of the 21st instant gives the honorable gentleman this send-off:

In generations there has probably been but one other member of the Senate who rivaled Fair's brilliant flashes of silence. That member was the late Abijah Gilbert, a well-to-do citizen of the East, who, while temporarily in Florida, was elected United States Senator by the carpet-bag Legislature of that State as a reward for his liberal contributions. Gilbert, in the six years he was in the Senate, never opened his mouth except to answer to his name on roll-call, and he never did this until he got a cue from Roscoe Conkling, who sat just across the aisle from him. In the six years now concluding, that he has been in the Senate, a transcript of Mr. Fair's senatorial utterances, including the presentation of petitions and all, would probably not fill one page of the Congressional Record, but if Senator Fair has not charmed his associates and the galleries with the magic of his tongue, he has still made himself solid with those from whom he is soon to part, by spreading before them feasts which Lucullus might have envied, and which entranced the senses if not the intellect.

In consequence of the Inter-State Commerce bill becoming an operative law on April 5th, Pacific coast railroad agents have given up the project of organizing a new passenger association, as the act will, it is believed, accomplish what the various associations have long tried to do in the way of preventing undercutting in rates. The new law imposes a fine of $5,000 against rate-cutting, and the San Francisco agents assert that they will be compelled to be very circumspect in the appointment of sub-agents. It is more than probable every sub-agent will be required to furnish a bond in $10,000 prior to his appointment.

The citizens of Los Angeles have raised a subscription to pay the salaries of two extra postoffice clerks, the postal department being unwilling to furnish the necessary help.

There is talk of cutting up the large grain ranches of the San Joaquin Valley into small farms.

WESTERN DISPATCHES

The Hawaiian Volcano.
SAN FRANCISCO, February 24.
The steamer Australia, which arrived this morning from Honolulu, brings the full particulars of the great lava flow. From Mauna Loa, the sight is described as magnificent beyond description. A column of fire was first observed from the summit of the crater on the night of January 16; the fire died down before midnight, but that great volcanic disturbance was going on was evident, as the cessation of the fire was followed by earthquakes which followed in quick succession up to the night of the 18th, when the fire and lava again burst forth from the mountain side. The length of the flow is estimated at 20 miles. This distance, the lava accomplished in two days, spreading as it descended towards the sea. From the evening of January 20th the stream of lava continued to flow without interruption until the 29th, when a river of fire burst forth, following the line of lava-flow. When the fire flamed out the heavy earthquakes ceased, although slight tremors were felt at intervals thereafter.

BISMARCK'S GREAT VICTORY

Terrible Destruction of Life and Property by an Earthquake.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

WASHINGTON, February 23.

Mr. Frye made an affecting appeal to the Senate to-day to take up and consider the message from the President vetoing the bill that would allow arrears of pension to Thomas S. Hopkins of the Maine volunteers. He described the case as a remarkably exceptional one. There were, he said, living on a farm in Maine in 1861 two boys, one 16 years of age, the other 20. The elder had just married when the war broke out. Full of the inspiration of patriotism, there was a controversy between them as to which should enlist. Finally it was decided that the younger boy should start first. In two months the elder boy enlisted, also, and was killed. The younger went to the front and remained there 16 months. Then he was stricken with a nervous disease and was transferred to the invalid corps, in which he remained until the close of the war.

He had no physical strength to work on the farm, and he returned to Washington, where he was appointed a clerk in the Treasury department. He was twice promoted and was offered a chief clerkship at $2,500 a year; but in the meantime he had studied law and had passed his examination, and decided to resign his place in the Treasury and commence the practice of law in which he built up a practice worth from $3,000 to $4,000 a year. He was a magnificent specimen of a man—six feet high, handsome in person and with a well cultivated mind. Once in a while he was stricken with his old disease.

Early in 1878, in the streets of Washington, he was stricken with it, was carried home again, and for nine years never had stood on his feet. They had been nine years of awful, fearful pain, night and day. For two years he could not lift a spoon to his mouth. One night, about two months ago, he was carried on a reclining chair into his (Mr. Frye's) room, and there he told his story. Congress passed a bill opening the door for him to apply for arrears, and that bill the President vetoed. The President said that this was a dangerous door to open, but during the whole two years that it was open under the law this man had not power to avail himself of it.

The bill was passed over the President's veto by a vote of 55 to 6. The six nays were Beck, Barry, Blackburn, Cook, Harris and Vance.

FOREIGN DISPATCHES

More of the Earthquake.

LONDON, February 24.
Further dispatches concerning the earthquake in Southern Europe state that although there have been no further shocks at Nice, the panic has not yet subsided. Fugitives are fleeing in every direction; the people are afraid to re-enter their houses and hotels, and last evening the heights back of the city were crowded with fugitives; 2,000 English, American and Russian visitors having camped out during the night on the elevated ground. Six thousand persons have left the city and started for Paris. A son of Albert N. Hathaway, the American Consul at Nice, was seriously injured. There have been no further disturbances at Monte Carlo, and the place is filled with thousands of refugees from Cannes, Nice, Mentone and San Remo. It is difficult to find shelter for the great number of people, and last night many of them were compelled to camp out. A more confident feeling prevails to-day. Gaming has been suspended, and the band is playing on the terrace for the purpose of restoring confidence to the frightened people.

ROME, February 24.
The details have been received this morning of the results of the earthquake showing that the effects were far more serious than was thought. The loss of life and the destruction of property is terrible. The most startling news comes from Genoa's Riviera; over 1,500 people were killed in that district. At a village on Bajarado, situated on the top of a hill, a number of inhabitants took refuge in a church when the shocks were first felt. Subsequent and greater shocks demolished the church and 300 of the people who were in it were killed. The destruction of property in sections of Italy visited by the earthquake, was immense and widespread.

NICE, February 24.
Cannes and Mentone are half deserted. Fears are expressed for the safety of the Prince of Wales and the Orleans Princes, all of whom are in the section of the country where the earthquake prevails.

PARIS, February 23.
A renewal of the earthquake shocks have occurred in the southern sections of France, and a terrible disaster is momentarily expected.

Bismarck Sustained.

BERLIN, February 24.
The Conservative and National Liberal majority in the new Reichstag is now undisputed, although their numerical strength is not yet finally ascertained. The majority will inaugurate a work of consolidating the developing empire. The members of the two parties (Conservatives and National Liberal) will act together as formerly, and endeavor to remedy the errors of the past decade. The Tageblatt says: The majority has declared against us and we bow to the verdict of the national will, but we shall continue to uphold our party principles. All first results of the elections are now known. Taking all uncontented cases, and forecasting the supplemental contests as carefully as possible, the combined opposition groups in the new Reichstag is placed at 177 votes, all told, while the government's supporters are estimated at 220.

A Case of Small-pox.

BERLIN, February 24.
It is ascertained that Prince Alexander of Battenburg, the deposed King of Bulgaria, who was reported to be ill with gastric fever at his father's house in Darmstadt, has small pox.

PEN PORTRAITS

Of the Law-Makers of the State of Nevada.

HON. WM. SHIRLEY,

Republican Assemblyman from Lyon county is now in his 46th year and is a tall, well-proportioned able-bodied man, with a large receding forehead, one full of brain but not indicative of demonstrativeness. He wears a moustache and chin whiskers and has a good, healthy complexion. His nose is fully Grecian and bespeaks great strength for its possessor. His hair is brown as are his eye brows, moustache and whiskers. His eyes are large and of a light brown color, while his chin is broad and firm. In fact his whole make-up is one that requires no effort on his part to ingratiate himself into the good graces of his fellow citizens. He is a native of Germany and like his race, is of a thoughtful and careful nature. He gives considerable attention to all mining legislation, while at the same time is very friendly disposed towards all measures calculated to further agricultural, irrigation and immigration measures. He is not given to talking, but is always in his seat and votes intelligently on all matters appertaining to the welfare of the State. He has large ears but they lie close to his cranium which bespeaks for him economy, carefulness and accumulativeness. Nevertheless there is a vein of good nature in him, but not in any way allowing their owner to approach the verge of extravagance. He is temperate, sincere and honest and reflects credit on the Constituency he has the honor of representing.

HON. GEORGE HARK,

Republican Assemblyman from Ormsby county, is in his 42d year, married and is a little above the average height, but very broad shouldered and as straight as an arrow. He has a military cast and wears a very heavy brown moustache and chin whiskers. His hair is of the same color. He has a magnificent forehead, one that I should judge is representative of a disposition to see everything and I am greatly surprised that he did not follow a sea-faring life, 's navigation would have been as easy to him as the describing of an equilateral triangle or a given straight line would be to a student of Euclid. He has only one eye which he lost in the service of his country in the war of the Rebellion. His ears are a little larger than average and have two distinguishing features, the first being a love of music and adventure and the second being order, system and possibly a little too much given to speculation. My honest opinion is that he is out of his element among scheming politicians. He is a straight-forward, outspoken, plain, blunt, honest man and his future success will not be assured in the political arena. He does not participate in debate but works hard in committee. He has a firm chin and a straight nose, although he was born in the State of Ohio, that bespeaks for him German ancestors. His chin is full and broad indicating firmness but possibly added to the traits his ears display, give him too great a quantity of good nature, a man who on the whole believes every one honest until he finds out the contrary. Ormsby county is well represented through him but the profit to himself will be very slight indeed.

Weak Lungs Made Strong.

Persons who stay in-doors all the time and lean over a counter or a desk sooner or later discover that their lungs are giving out. Editors are often thus afflicted. Erasmus R. Sutherland, editor of The Eastern State Journal, White Plains, New York, writes: I have used Allcock's Porous Plasters in my family since 1893. In that year I had an attack of pneumonia, from which I was not expected to recover. My lungs were left in a very weak state. I commenced using Allcock's Porous Plasters, wearing them constantly three months, two on the breast and two on the back. The result was surprising, at least to me. The pain in my lungs had left me, and I felt like "a giant refreshed with new wine."

A Luxury and Necessity

For rich and poor who wish to enjoy good health, and who do not wish to resort to bitter nauseous liver medicines and cathartics, is the concentrated California Liquid Fruit Remedy, Syrup of Figs. 50c. and $1 bottle for sale by Wm. Pininger, Reno, Nevada.

Talking Over the Fashions.

Two human skeletons have been found imbedded in the solid rock in Arizona. Both were in a sitting posture and are supposed to have been females. It is thought, says an exchange, that they belonged to some pre-historic race and sat down by the bed of a lake to talk over the new fashions and did not notice the flight of time.

Physicians Have Found Out

That a contaminating and foreign element in the blood, developed by indigestion, is the cause of rheumatism. This settles upon the sensitive subcutaneous covering of the muscles and ligaments of the joints, causing constant and shifting pain, and aggregating a calcium, chalky deposit which produces stiffness and distortion of the joints. No fact which experience has demonstrated in regard to Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has stronger evidence to support than this, namely: that this medicine of comprehensive uses checks the formidable and atrocious disease, nor is it less positively established that it is preferable to the poisons often used to arrest it, since the medicine contains only salutary ingredients. It is also a signal remedy for malarial fevers, constipation, dyspepsia, kidney and bladder ailments, debility and other disorders. See that you get the genuine.

He who wants hope is the poorest man alive.

Free Trade.

The reduction of internal revenue and the taking off of revenue stamps from Proprietary Medicines, no doubt has largely benefited the consumers, as well as relieving the burden of home manufacturers. Especially is this the case with "Green's August Flower" and "Roechee's German Syrup," at the reduction of 50 cents per dozen, has been added to increase the size of the bottles containing these remedies, thereby giving one-fifth more medicine in the 75 cent size. The "August Flower" for dyspepsia and liver complaint, and the "German Syrup" for cough and lung troubles, have perhaps, the largest sale of any medicines in the world. The advantage of increased size of the bottles will be greatly appreciated by the sick and afflicted, in every town and village in civilized countries. Sample bottles for 10 cents remain the same size.

Merit Will Tell.

Was never better demonstrated than when "Fryer's Ailetene Remedies" were awarded diplomas at the late California State Fair at Sacramento and at the Mechanics Institute at San Francisco. W. P. Winger is agent for these celebrated "Ailetene Remedies" and he offers to return your money if they do not give satisfaction. In buying, be sure the fac-simile signature of D. F. Fryer is on each, as none are genuine without it.

Silence never betrayed any one.

DAYTON, NEVADA, FEBRUARY 5, 1887.
This is to certify that last season we used the Climax Stackers in putting up 1500 tons of hay, mostly blue joint; that it did its work well, and in my estimation is not equalled by any stacker or hay-lifting appliance on this coast.

The Storm.

Another heavy snow-storm set in this morning at about half-past 10 o'clock, and continues up to the hour of our going to press. A heavy rainfall is reported in San Francisco and throughout the Sacramento Valley. In the Sierras along the Central Pacific road the fall of snow has in many places exceeded a foot. The Nevada and California train that left here at 8 o'clock this morning, proceeded a distance of only four or five miles, when it was obliged by drifting snow to return to town. The Virginia and Truckee accommodation due here at about 12 M., did not arrive until 1:30 P. M.

Grand Mask Ball at Carson.

The National Guard of Carson Tuesday night gave a masque ball. It was attended by one of the largest gatherings that ever assembled in the Opera House. There were over 300 masquers, and many of them very unique and original. Reno was well represented, and exhibited excellent taste in the choice of the costumes worn by her fair daughters. The affair was pronounced the greatest success that has ever been achieved in society circles at the Capital since the day of the "Au Fait Club" of 10 years ago. The unmasking occurred at 12 M., and then the recognition of the various parties created hilarity unbounded.

Last Night's Play.

The play of "Zitka" last evening by the Levick-Anderson troupe was a rare treat to all who were so fortunate as to witness it, but the house was not sufficiently well filled to warrant other first-class companies in playing in Reno. There was no weak place in the whole cast and the play is full of intensely interesting situations.

The funeral cortege was large, and the expressions of sorrow and regret over the death of the excellent and Christian gentleman on the part of those who paid to him their last marks of homage were numerous and affecting. Mr. Jennings was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in March, 1814. He came to the Pacific Coast in 1874, since which time he preached the Gospel in this State and California. His first appointment was to Gold Hill. From there he went to Independence, Cal., and from there to Sierra Valley. Eight years ago last August he returned to this State, locating at Unionville. Afterwards he preached at Elko, Tuscarora, Cedarville, Surprise Valley, Susanville and Genoa. Two years ago last April he came to Reno, from which time until prostrated by sickness he labored zealously and hard in the cause of Christianity, and won many friends who shall always cherish his memory. His labors in the ministry extended over a term of 50 years.

A Hardener's Confession and Other Matters.

SUSANVILLE, February 16.

Editor Gazette:—The driver of the stage from this place to Belber bring the report here to-night that John McNemar had confessed to the killing of J. B. Stanton in Shasta county sometime last spring. He also implicated one Hollenbeck, as a partner in the crime. He also says that the widow of Adam Muddock paid them $400 to commit the deed. Stanton was killed while eating supper in his cabin by some one firing a charge of slugs through the window.

It has stormed here every day for two weeks. Last Saturday it rained here steady all day and since then it has snowed and there is about 18 inches of "the beautiful" here in town. Seven miles from here on the Oroville road, the snow is five feet deep. Fears entertained for the safety of the mail carrier between here and Oroville, Keith Miller, who has not put in an appearance for the last two weeks.

The mail carrier from here to Belber says the snow is three feet between here and that place and in some places from five to twenty. Sleighing here in town is the chief amusement just now.

The snow is so soft in the valley that rabbits are easily killed with a club, they being unable to run.

RIX.

A Social Party.

Valuable Ranch and Stock Range.

William Roberts, foreman of the Nevada Land and Cattle Company, who has been spending a few weeks among old Reno friends, will leave for the ranch to-morrow morning, and will take from Winnemucca 15 or 18 men who will be put to work clearing up 500 acres more ground to be planted in alfalfa, of which this company now have 1,000 acres, sown last year. This company has on its range as fine a lot of graded cattle as can be found this side of the Rocky Mountains, and within the next three years they will have the model stock range of the Pacific coast. Besides cutting over 600 tons of hay last season, the company raised 1,700 sacks of barley and a small quantity of wheat. Squaw Valley, nearly all of which is owned by this company, and which can be watered from the company's reservoir at the mouth of Rock Creek, is as large as all of Truckee Meadows.

The Moran Homicide.

The body of George Blethen, who was killed on Saturday in Chat Roberts' saloon at Moran, was sent to Undertaker Sanders at this town for burial Wednesday afternoon. The body had been kept by friends for four days in the hope that the Coroner of Lassen county, who was snowbound farther north, would arrive and hold an inquest. Inasmuch as there was no prospect on Wednesday morning of his arrival for several days, and probably not for a fortnight, it was deemed advisable to send the body here for burial as stated. It was placed in a neat coffin this morning and interred in the Hillside cemetery.

Al Dubois, who committed the homicide, went to Susanville Tuesday evening and surrendered himself to the authorities. On account of the deep snow, it was an impossibility for him to leave the country and not be tracked.

ABOUT WILD CATS.

Catamounts Made Fiercer by Hunger Attacking Travelers.

Any person who has occasion to travel through the counties of northern Pennsylvania and the adjacent counties of New York State, at this time, will stop in few villages where he will not hear something said about the unusual number of wild cats or catamounts that are lurking in the woods this winter. In this immediate vicinity catamounts are certainly more common and bold than the people of this generation, at least, ever knew them to be. For a week or more past four wild cats, of enormous size, have been prowling about the Penwarden and Reifer farms, not more than three miles from Honesdale. Morris Treadwell, who enjoys considerable local notoriety as a trapper, captured two of these catamounts. One measured five feet in length—the other four feet. The latter was killed in a dead-fall trap. The former, the trapper had discovered, had its lair in a small cave in the rocks near Reifer's slashing or bark woods.

Treadwell set a heavy steel trap in the cave, and on visiting it found that the wild cat was fast, but was only held by the tips of its toes on one forefoot. Treadwell, knowing it would be unwise to draw the trap and catamount out with the latter so slightly held, got another trap, set it, and, crawling in the cave, pushed it toward the animal, whose fierce growls gave warning to him not to approach too near. As soon as the second trap was shoved within reach of the wild cat, the latter struck at it and hit the pan of the trap with the forepaw that was free. The traps used for capturing catamounts are made to spring with the quickness of lightning; but so agile was this animal that, notwithstanding the suddenness with which the jaws of the trap came together, it sprang the trap and withdrew its paw safely eight times before the leg was caught. With both of its legs thus secured, Treadwell drew the catamount out by the chain of one of the traps; but, hampered as the animal was, it gave the trapper a long and fierce fight before he could overcome it with the weapons he had at hand.

A few days ago William Hyman, Joel Somers, and George Harris were on their way down the Little Pine Creek, in Tolga County, riding horseback to English Center. The road is through a hemlock wilderness, and very lonely. As they were passing a spot in the woods where the branches of the hemlocks almost interlock overhead, all three of the horses began to plunge and attempt to turn back. Somers' horse turned partially around, and at the same instant a huge catamount sprang from a hemlock tree and alighted on Somers' back. It sank its claws in his clothing and attempted to set its teeth in his neck. The plunging of the horse and the shouts of the men apparently frightened it, for it leaped to the ground, but almost immediately sprang upon Harris. Harris fortunately had, in a side coat pocket, a heavy carpenter's hammer, which he was returning to a person from whom he had borrowed it at English Center. Quickly taking it from his pocket he struck the wild cat a powerful blow between the eyes and knocked it to the ground. Before it could recover from the blow, Harris leaped from his horse and beat the catamount's brains out with the hammer.

One Monday night Christopher Hallenbeck was driving, with his wife, on the Hawk's Nest road, which is hewn out of the mountain-side 800 feet above the Delaware River, in Sullivan County, N. Y. The road runs its entire length through the woods. Hallenbeck was going to Mongaup, and when within three miles of the place, he was startled by an unearthly yell that came from the woods on the mountain-side above him. He knew at once that it was the cry of a hungry catamount. His wife fainted away. Hallenbeck put his horse on a run, although the road is a dangerous one to drive. The catamount followed the wagon all the way to Mongaup, and kept up its frightful yelling. It made no attempt to attack Hallenbeck, but seemed intent on running him down. Mrs. Hallenbeck did not recover consciousness until some time after she reached home.

These animals have become so numerous in that locality that an attempt is to be made to exterminate them. There is a deserted old stone quarry in the neighborhood, and the locality is so lonely that it has been made a rendezvous for wild cats. The quarry is to be baited with the carcasses of a sheep, pieces of beef, and other meat. A party of hunters will secrete themselves in the shanty. The baited quarry will soon attract all the catamounts in the neighborhood to it, and they will be riddled with rifle balls as fast as they appear.—[N. Y. Times.]

A Pawnbroker's Notion.

There is said to be a tradition that the first man who goes into a pawnshop of a Monday morning is never permitted to leave without buying what he wants. Pawnbrokers have a superstition that if they don't sell to the first customer who comes in on Monday they will have bad luck all the week. And this has become a rule with people who patronize pawnshops. A man got a $40 overcoat last winter for $6 because he went into a pawnbroker's the first man on Monday and asked to look at some overcoats.—[Philadelphia News.]

SHAMEFUL ABUSE

Keaped upon a Noted Englishman for His Open Honesty.

WM. ED. ROBSON, M. D., L. R. C. S. I., M. K. Q. C. P. I., late of the Royal Navy, of England, has got into professional trouble for writing the following open letter to the editor of the London Family Doctor:

"I believe it to be the duty of every physician to make known any means or remedy whereby sickness can be prevented, and it is for this purpose I write to give my experience both here and abroad. I ask the publication of the statement that people may be warned before it is too late, to say to them that there is at hand a means by which they may be restored to perfect health. It is well known to the medical world, and in deed, to the laity, that a certain disease is making a terrible havoc; that next to consumption it is the most fatal, and that when fully developed there is nothing to be done for the sufferer."

"Physicians and scientists have long been trying to throw light upon the cause, and if possible, find in nature a medicine for this fatal malady. They have shown, absolutely, that the blood-purifying organs of vital importance, are the kidneys, and that when they once fail, the poison which they should take out of the blood is carried by the blood into every part of the body, developing disease."

"In my hospital practice in England, India and South America, and also while a surgeon in the Royal Navy of Great Britain, I gave a great deal of attention to the study of diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs, and found that not only was the cure of chronic Bright's Disease hopeless, but that kidney disease was remarkably prevalent; much more so than generally known and was the cause of the majority of cases of sickness, and further, that the medical profession has no remedy which exerts any absolute control over these organs in disease."

"Some time ago when I had a case which resisted all regular treatment—which is very limited—complicated with the passing of stones from the kidneys, much against my will I permitted my patient to use Warner's safe cure, of which I had heard marvelous results. In his case the result was simply marvelous, as the attack was a severe one, and development very grave, for an analysis showed per cent. of albumen and granular tube casts."

"The action of the medicine was singular and incomprehensible to me. I had never seen anything like it. The patient recovered promptly, and is to-day a well and healthy man. This stimulated my inquiry into the merits of the remedy, and after analysis I found it to be of purely vegetable character, harmless to take under all circumstances."

"Casting aside all professional prejudice I gave it a thorough trial, as I was anxious that my patients should be restored to health, no matter by what medicine. I prescribed it in a great variety of cases, Acute, Chronic, Bright's Disease, Congestion of the Kidneys, Catarrh of the Bladder, and in every instance did it speedily effect a cure."

"For this reason I deem it my duty to give to the world this statement regarding the value of Warner's safe cure. I make this statement on facts I am prepared to produce and substantiate. I appeal to physicians of large practice who know how common and deceptive diseases of the kidneys are, to lay aside professional prejudice, give their patients Warner's safe cure, restore them to perfect health, earn their gratitude, and be true physicians."

"I am satisfied that more than one-half of the deaths which occur in England are caused, primarily, by impaired action of the kidneys, and the consequent retention in the blood of the poisonous uric and kidney acid. Warner's safe cure causes the kidneys to expel this poison, checks the escape of albumen, relieves the inflammation and prevents illness from impaired and impoverished blood. Having had more than seventeen years' experience in my profession, I conscientiously and emphatically state that I have been able to give more relief and effect more cures by the use of Warner's safe cure than by all the other medicines ascertainable to the profession, the majority of which, I am sorry to say, are very uncertain in their action."

"Isn't that a straightforward, manly letter?"

"Indeed it is."

"Well, but do you know the author has been dreadfully persecuted for writing it?"

"How so? What has he done to merit it?"

"None? He has spoken the truth 'out of school' and his fellow physicians, who want the public to think they have a monopoly in curing diseases, are terribly angry with him for admitting professional inability to reach certain disorders."

"That letter created a wonderful sensation among the titled classes and the public. This jarred the doctors terribly. The College of Surgeons and Queen's College, from which institution he was graduated, asked for an explanation of his unprofessional conduct, and notified him that unless he made a retraction they would discipline him."

"The doctor replied that he would give his patients to make use of Warner's safe cure only after all the regular methods had failed, and when he was satisfied that there was no possible hope for them. Upon their recovery after having used Warner's safe cure, he was so much surprised that he wrote the above letter to the Family Doctor. He regretted that the faculties found fault with his action in the matter, but he could not conscientiously retract the facts as written to the Family Doctor."

"The faculties of both colleges replied that unless he retracted, they should cut him off, which would naturally deprive him from again practicing his profession, and also prevent his securing another appointment in the Royal Navy!"

The illustrious doctor's dilemma is certainly an unpleasant one, emphasizing, as it does, both his own honesty, and the contemptible prejudice and bigotry of English medical men. The masses, however, having no sympathy with their nonsense, keep on using the remedy he so highly recommends and get well, while the rich and able depend upon the prejudiced doctors and die!

An Opportunity to Secure a Home at Reno!

200 LOTS FOR SALE

The manager of the Lake estate, in order to enhance the value of the property of the estate, as well as assist in

Building Up the Town of Reno

Has determined to offer two hundred fine building lots for sale.

some of which are situated in the central part of town, and are very desirable for business purposes.

The proposed site for homes is immediately south of the Truckee river, and its elevation affords a magnificent view of the mountains in the distance, and the valley and town near at hand. A more perfect place for an elegant home could not be selected. The soil is good and an abundant supply of water will be sold with each lot. The health of the locality cannot be questioned, as its elevation assures a perfect system of sewerage. Gas mains will be laid through the streets free of cost, for the benefit of those desiring to use them. It is also intended by the owners to lay out a park on the south side of the Truckee river, covering 20 acres, in which the public may enjoy the pleasure of driving, fishing and boating.

The educational advantages of Reno are well known, and the business prospects of the town are assured beyond a doubt. Purchasers of these lots may feel confident that the best of terms will be offered, and they will be fairly dealt with. For further particulars, address
